FARMERS MARKET SUMMER MUSIC SERIES IN JULY

JAZZ, FUNK, BLUES, ROCKABILLY AND MORE HIGHLIGHT FREE CONCERTS

FARMERS MARKET / LOS ANGELES, CA -- Both summer music series at Farmers Market, Thursday Night Jazz and Friday Night Music, offer a terrific line-up of free music throughout the month of July. The free concerts begin at 7 PM on the Market's West Patio and the Market's myriad shops, grocers and restaurants are open all evening, providing ready access to great food, beer, wine and soft drinks and everything from tapas and hummos to dessert.

The Thursday Night Jazz line-up in July features exceptional straight ahead jazz from the Doug MacDonald Trio and 30s jazz, ala Benny Goodman, with Dean Mora & His Quintet. Two especially popular acts are featured in July as well. Sydney Weisman and The Wayne Peet Trio are Market favorites whose survey of the Great American Song Book reaches from the Gershwins to Bobby Darin. The legendary Bill Watrous and his best musical pal Rob Stoneback also return to the Market with straight ahead jazz; their work communicates with one another, and with the audience, with exceptional grace and style.

Friday Night Music at Farmers Market features L.A.'s most popular Salsa and Latin Jazz performers, the Susie Hansen Latin Band. Atomic Sherpas return to the Market with their cool brand of Funk Jazz and Roy Gaines & His Orchestra Tuxedo Blues offer blues and jazz. The Market also welcomes Big Sandy & His Fly Rite Boys; their rockabilly and 50s rock have delighted Market fans in numerous prior appearances, always prompting dancing in the aisles. The Friday Night sessions close out with an exceptional show with Speedtwinn, an Americana group with roots in Britain – the group is fronted by Gary Twinn of Supernaut, a highly regarded Aussie band, and Honeydrippers, a dynamic rockabilly combo.

The entire Farmers Market Summer Music line-up, which runs through July and August and into September, can be found at www.farmersmarketla.com.
